The legal basis for the processing lies in the subject's freely-given consent.

3. Nature of the provision

Consent of data, as concerns the processing referred to in point 2 above, must be considered optional, therefore any refusal does not render it impossible for the subject to participate in the initiative.

The data collected will be processed using electronic or, in any case, automated, IT or digital means, or through manual processing, in all cases only for the purposes for which the personal data was collected and while guaranteeing the safety of the subject.

Data will not be stored for longer than what is necessary for processing purposes ("storage limitation principle", Article 5, EU Regulation 2016/679) and / or in compliance with deadlines established by current regulations and legal obligations.

In all cases, the Data Controller applies rules that prevent the storage of data indefinitely and therefore limits the storage period, in compliance with the principle of minimization of data processing.

5. Entities authorized to process data, supervision and communication of data

The processing of the collected data is carried out by internal staff of the Data Controller for this purpose identified and authorized for processing according to specific instructions given in compliance with current legislation.

The data collected, within the limits relevant to the indicated processing purposes and where it is necessary or instrumental for the execution of the same purposes, may be processed by third parties appointed Data Processors, or, depending on the case, communicated to all subjects necessary for the proper execution of the purposes set out in point 2.

In addition, the collected data may be processed by third parties involved with the Data Controller in academic-educational partnerships for the execution of the purposes set out in point 2 (e.g. agreements relating to joint educational projects).
